

Poetry Porch: Poetry

An August Dusk

By Robert K. Johnson

Inside the ring
of dirt-coated bricks
that surround the rose bush lies a circle of fallen red petals—

confetti

left from yesterday's parade.