A-Sonnet: Aged Acumen
By Alexander Pepple

Absent the absolution he
Agonized over, he reviews
Accounts of his failures to see
Another plan that he pursues,
Arriving at that mercy which
Atones for his then foolish youth.
Age turned the medium to enrich
Acumen for discerning truth.

Abundance of his drive—not feared
Armageddon nor need to please
Antagonists bred self-belief—
Ascribed by him as something weird.
Acceptance brought a sense of ease,
Allayed his doubts and gave relief.
